

Be proactive in your office setting

- Ask your supervisor to have a discussion about setting and maintaining boundaries, or client-worker roles and responsibilities at a staff meeting.
- Talk with your supervisor and co-workers about creating a “Bill of Rights and Responsibilities” to post in your offices.
- Consider having the client and health worker sign a roles and responsibilities agreement at the start of their relationship.

July 29, 2015

